HOW SHE WAS DRESSED.—In a clever burlesque of the Jenkins style of describing weddings, recently published in the Indianopolis News, the bride's dress is described as white megatherium silk trimmed with prussic acid blue pompaded front and lambrequins of the same, looped up with calla lilies flecked by furiginated potassite and laced triuere—imported expressly for her. Her veil was a blassed polonaise, trimmed with double fluted ruchings surmounted with the wreath of the snowy trichinallis. Some of the presents were a set of teeth and an oyster-freezer, from the bride's mother; a gold-lined hash-receive and a set of chaste and elegant terra-cotta jewelry from the groom; a quilt pieced by the donor when eleven years of age, and a package of cabbage seed from the bride's grand-mother aged ninety, who can read fine print without glasses, and who attended all the nine in the banquet with her own teeth.

The True Wife.

The following touching, simple, sorrowful memorial of his wife, was written by one of the great statesmen of England, Sir James Mackintosh, in a private letter to a friend: "She was a woman," he writes, "who, by tender management of my weakness, gradually corrected the most pernicious of them. She became prudent from affection, and, though of the most generous nature, she was taught frugality and economy by her love for me. During the most critical period of my life, she preserved order in my affairs, from the care of which she relieved me. She gently reclaimed me from dissipation; she propped my weak and irresolute nature; she urged my indolence to all the exertions that have been useful and creditable to me; and she was perpetually at hand, to admonish my heedlessness and improvidence.

To her I owe whatever I am; to her whatever I shall be. In her solicitude for my interest, she never for a moment forgot my character. Her feelings were warm and impetuous, but she was placable, tender and constant. Such was she whom I have lost. And I have lost her, when a knowledge of her worth had refined my youthful love into friendship; before age had deprived it of much of its original ardor. I seek relief, and find it, in the consolatory opinion, that a benevolent wisdom inflicts the chastisement, as well as bestows the enjoyment of human life; that this dreary and wretched life is not the whole of man; that a being capable of such a proficiency in science and virtue, is not like the beasts that perish: that there is a dwelling place prepared for the spirits of the just; and that the ways of God will yet be vindicated to man."

M'lle. Nilsson in a New Role.

The queen of song appeard in the role of queen of society in the spacious parlors of the Galt House last evening, and won deeper admiration from those who had already been entranced with her liquid notes at the opera house. A select assembly greeted her there. She floated through the rooms in a mist of white morie antique touched with the azure of a blue overskirt through which gleamed tangles of gold as flecks of sunshine play upon the bosom of some blue lake.

The refined delicacy of the members of the German made this reunion the most recherche of the season. The figures of the dance were selected with exquisite discrimination, among which may be mentioned the flag and cornet. The supper was one which Aspasia or La Pompadour might have envied. Among the guests we noticed the beautiful Misses Shillito and Shoenburger, of Cincinnati.—Louisville Commercial.

THE LATEST IN BOOTS—LITTLE TOES TO BE WHITTLED.—Fashions are funny. The new styles in boots create a sensation The delicately shaped boot laced on the inside, requires a slender foot and arched instep. Such feet are not common. It is said that a celebrated artist in hair intends to import a Peruvian surgeon, who has made loads of gold by shaving off the little toes of ladies. These little things have been discovered to be absurd superfluities of nature, a fact the fashionables of Peru found out long ago—whence proceeds their narrow, elegant feet. A little toe is regarded as nothing, when compared with appearances, and modern science makes the operation of removing them rather pleasant than otherwise. Small heels are beginning to be obsolete; soles are broader with scarcely perceptible heels, in plain black—all fancy stitching being deemed in bad taste. So they go. Coal scuttle bonnets, broad, solid, high-heeled shoes. What next?

ECONOMIC USES OF PARTRIDGES.—At a meeting of horticulturists in Illinois strong ground was taken against the destruction of partridges. To show how useful this bird is it was stated that a flock was seen running along the rows of corn just sprouting, and seeing the birds engaged in something which was believed to be pulling up the young plants, one of them was killed and its "crop" examined, which was found to contain one cutworm, twenty-one striped bugs, and over one hundred chinch bugs. Another member related that he had adopted measures to protect the bird, and that they had become so numerous and so tame that hundreds of them after snow falls, could be seen in his barnyard with the fowls where they were fed. As a result of their presence upon his premises his wheat crops were unusually abundant, while in many other places not far off the chinch bug and other insects had destroyed half the crop.

☞ The question of dress is, after all, simply a matter of prejudice and custom. Chesterfield and Beau Brummell had their ideas of appropriateness in costume, and the King of Dahomey has his. This potentate, as a rule, rarely encumbers himself with trappings, either royal robes or otherwise; but when the Italian Scientific Commission paid him a visit not long since, he modified his usual form of apparel to do fitting honor to his guests. Seated on his throne, his Majesty received them in a costume admirably suited to the climate of his dominions, consisting of druggists' labels, blue, gold, and green, profusely pasted on his body—the said labels having been carefully peeled from medicine bottles which had been brought to his country by Europeans.—Exchange.

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.—We take great pleasure in calling attention to the announcement of this sterling journal for 1872. THE CONSTITUTION is conducted with much ability and industry, the editor, Colonel Avery, being a forcible and graceful writer, and his assistant editors men of energy and good judgment. We heartily commend the journal to those who wish to take a good paper from the seat of government of the State. Savannah Republican.

☞ Judge Noah traces the history of newspapers back to the war between the Venitians and Solyman II. in Dalmatia in 1563, when people paid a coin called "gosetta" for the privilege of listening to news from the seat of war, read from written sheets. A file of these written Venitian papers for sixty years, is in the Magliabecchi Library at Florence. He thinks the origin of the newspaper was in a love of gossip and slander.

☞ A clergyman on exchange found a note in the Bible to the effect that brother A. requested the prayers of the church, that the loss of his wife might be blessed to him, etc. The preacher prayed most fervently. To his amazement and mortification he found that the note had lain in the pulpit a year, while the bereaved gentleman was on this Sabbath sitting with a new wife in the congregation. N. Y. Sun.

☞ It appears from the official report of the Commissioner of Education, that the public schools at Washington City are so arranged as to afford accommodations for only one-third of the white children and one-half of the black ones. That city is, and for many years has been, completely under the control of the Radical party, and what we want to know is, whether this does not look a little like a discrimination against the white people who pay the taxes, and in favor of the negroes, who pay none, or almost none?

☞ Governor Campbell, of Wyoming, has espoused the cause of the ladies to such purpose that one of them has nobly espoused him. It is said that the woman suffrage law was there passed as a joke on the bachelor Governor, in the faith that he would veto it. He has first circumvented the Democratic jokists by signing it, and now by pledging to Wyoming a future radiant with Campbells. So much for sportive legislation on a serious theme.—St. Louis Democrat.

☞ Returns for the past five years of the American rice crop, which is grown in the Carolinas, Georgia and Louisiana, show that it has increased from 20,000,000 of pounds in 1866, to 92,000,000 in 1870, whilst the price has decreased from thirteen and a half cents to nine cents per pound during that period. American rice is protected by an import duty on foreign rice in the tariff.

☞ The first State election in this important political year will be held in New Hampshire on the 12th of March. By the Constitution of the State an absolute majority of all the votes cast is necessary to elect, and as there are again four tickets in the field—Republican, Democratic, Labor Reform and Prohibition—it is possible that the choice of Governor will be thrown into the Legislature, as it was last year.—Exchange.

Compound Acid Phosphate of Lime for Composting with Cotton Seed, prepared under the Superintendence of DR. ST. JULIEN RAVENEL, Charleston, S. C.

PRICE REDUCED!

THIS article, as above stated, is prepared expressly for compounding with Cotton Seed. A compost made as directed in Printed Circulars, with an equal weight of this article and Cotton Seed, furnishes the Cotton Seed with the Soluble Phosphate, which is necessary to make it properly effective. The compost should be made from four to six weeks before planting time, in order that decomposition may take place, and should be applied at from 400 to 600 pounds per acre, or more. General experience for two years has shown this compost to be most economical and effective Fertilizer for Cotton and Corn. This acid Phosphate is now put into market at the Low Price of $39 00 per ton, cash, at $37 00 time without interest, at which rate every Planter can supply himself with a first class Fertilizer at a minimum outlay per acre.

Excursion to Florida.

We learn that Mr. Ball, the excellent Agent of the Everglade route to Florida, over the Macon and Brunswick Railroad, is getting up an excursion to Florida, the land of flowers. This will be a rare treat in these wintry times. We shall tell our readers more of it in a few days.

☞ There is a story told of a Virginia legislator, who last winter approached a Pennsylvania railroad man and asked him flatly whether his company intended to spend any more money in Richmond. "No, sir, no; emphatically no," was the excited reply. "Why not?" "I'll tell you why, sir. The members of the Pennsylvania Legislature are gentlemen, sir; perfect gentlemen. You don't have to bribe but once; but (bringing his fist in virtuous indignation down upon the table) these d—d scoundrels in Virginia have no more conscience than a hog, and you never know when you are done buying them."

The City Council.

We confess ourselves highly gratified at the proceedings of our City Council last Friday night, and we hesitate not in saying there is no man who really has the interests of this city at heart who will not unite with us in pronouncing it a step in the right direction. The resolution to send a committee on to Washington to represent Atlanta before Congress, in the great canal question, which will shortly come before that body, will meet with the hearty approval of every one capable of appreciating the importance of this great enterprise to our commercial future. The gentlemen selected for this highly important service are Hon. J. H. James, our worthy Mayor, Judge Cabaness and Colonel B. W. Frobel, gentlemen who are too well known to our people to need any comment here. The selection is as good as could have been made, and we feel confident that all will be done in their power to forward the interests of this city, and that these interests are perfectly safe in their hands.

The speech of Col. W. H. Weems before the Council was a master piece. He appeared as the advocate of this great work, and right well did he perform that duty. His arguments were unanswerable, because they were based upon fact, and the clearness and force with which he pointed out the necessity of some other system than that which we have so long tried was sufficient to convince his most obstinate opponent.

We have from the first advocated this canal, as a necessity to our future, if we hope for advancement. Its prospects are daily brightenning, and we say, God speed to the brave hearts and untiring hands that labor for its success.

The Georgia National Bank.

The Georgia National Bank was commissioned by the United States Government in the autumn of 1865, to do business, with John Rice, President; E. L. Jones, Cashier; E. E. Rawson, W. W. Clayton, S. A. Durand, and John Collier, Directors.

The capital stock was $100,000 paid in, and entirely in United States five-twenty bonds, which are deposited in the United States Treasury, at Washington, in accordance with provision of National Bank law.

The circulation was from the beginning, and is now $90,000, secured by $100,000 United States bonds deposited in Washington.

The stock of the organization was owned as follows: John Rice, 760 shares of $100 each; E. L. Jones, 200 shares of $100 each; W. W. Clayton, 10 shares of $100 each; E. E. Rawson, 10 shares of $100 each; John Collier, 10 shares of $100 each; S. A. Durand, 10 shares of $100 each.

The stock did not change ownership materially from the above, till in autumn of 1870, when Mr. Rice, then owning 805 shares, sold 800 shares to H. I. Kimball.

H. I. Kimball had previously made a loan of Byron Kilbourn, then temporarily residing in Florida for his health, for which, upon the death of Mr. Kilbourn, soon after he transferred directly to the widow and executor, in their own names, as collateral, 740 shares.

The stock at the present time is owned as follows: S. A. Lapham, executor, 500 shares; Mrs. Byron Kilbour, 240; E. L. Jones, 140; John Harris, 10; L. Scofield, 10; H. T. Phillips, 10; Daniel Pitman, 10; D. A. Cook, 10; D. A. Walker, 10; A. S. Whiton, 20; W. W. Clayton, 10; Jno. Rice, 5; J. Caldwell, 5. The losses through the Bullock-Kimball entanglement, such as the law may determine, will fall upon the bank, and the irreparable damage of its abrupt closure, as will be seen, will fall largely upon depositors, orphans and a widow, which is greatly to be regretted.

It is alike incumbent upon the State officers and upon the officers of the bank to contend for their respective rights, in doing which it would seem no motive could be imputed to the latter except to protect the stockholders and the creditors of the bank, including depositors. The business of the bank has been largely diminished during the past six or eight months by the connection of Bullock and Kimball with it. Its deposits used to run up to $600,000, They had fallen off to between twenty and thirty thousand.

The matter is a great hardship to many innocent persons. But of course the State's interest must be protected. The officers of the bank should do everything to protect depositors and stockholders. It is possible the Legislature may slip in to the relief of the depositors. Undoubtedly application will be made to that body for this purpose, and it [illegible]

The Kimball House.

This fine hotel building is in big dispute, therefore a history of it will not be untimely. H. I. Kimball built the hotel at a cost of $650,000. This does not include the furniture, which is owned by Mr. S. E. Crittenden, and cost $100,000. The building is not fully complete. It is believed $30,000 would finish it.

There was purchase money due on the lot of $41,000 to Mr. Thompson, $2,000 to Mr. R. Peters, and $2,000 to Mr. John P. King. The mechanic's liens and taxes amounted as follows:

Hall's Laborers lien	$1,300
Heely & Berry, Contractors	5,000
J. C. Peck, "	1,000
Pitts & Cook, "	1,000
City Taxes	1,000
State and County Taxes	4,500
	2,000
	$15,800

The following mortgages cover the property:

John Rice, Atlanta	$143,300
A. Johnson, New York	57,000
Total	$200,300

This makes an aggregate as follows:

Due on Land	$ 45,000
Liens and Taxes	15,800
Mortgages	200,300
Whole indebtedness	$261,000

We thus see the whole indebtedness under Mr. Kimball's ownership was $261,000. The indebtedness has since grown several thousand dollars from interest and taxes.

For the purpose of raising money on the house, Mr. Kimball sold the property in May, 1870, to the Atlanta Improvement Company, of which H. I. Kimball was President and George W. Adair, Secretary. The price was $650,000, of which $250,000 was payable in stock, and $400,000 payable in twenty years seven per cent. gold bonds.

The building was advertised to be sold under three liens—Hall's, Heeley & Berry's, and Peck's, one a laborer's lien, and the others contractors' liens. Mr. Hall's lien was withdrawn, but is since paid. Mr. Rice, made affidavit as a creditor objecting that the contractors' liens could not be enforced under the summary process for preserving laborers' liens, which was supposed to be satisfactory to the Sheriff. He finally, however, at the last hour, sold the property under the contractors' lien, disregarding the affidavit, no bond being given, and Mr. Hill bid off the property for Mr. Thompson for $15,000, and took the Sheriff's deed to and possession of the property. The rents amount to about $20,000 a year net.

Of these bonds $210,00 were deposited in trust to secure above debts. The remaining $190,000 of bonds were hypothecated in New York at about fifty cents on the dollar, which Mr. Kimball got.

The Atlanta Improvement Company consisted as follows:

H. I. Kimball, President	2,000	shares.
E. N. Kimball	200	"
George Cook	200	"
E. L. Jones	50	"
George W. Adair	50	"
	2,500.

These 2,500 shares of $100 each constitute the $250,000 stock for which the building was sold. It will be seen that there was very little change in the ownership. Mr. Kimball still retaining the vast bulk of the property, but holding it as a shareholder in an incorporated company, whose bonds could be more easily disposed of.

The legal dispute now is between the mortgagors Mr. Rice and Mr. Johnson and Mr. Thompson, the successful bidder and present owner. The mortgagors contest the legality of the sale. How the dispute will end of course the courts will determine. Col. L. E. Bleckley represents the mortgagors, and Hon. B. H. Hill the purchaser, Mr Thompson. Both are confident of success.

Mr. Crittenden in the meantime has run the hotel brilliantly, making it the best kept hotel in the South and inferior to none North. We are glad to learn that the changes of ownership in the building carry no change of proprietorship. Up to last October the proprietorship consisted of Mr. Crittenden and and Mr. McCombs. Since then Mr. Crittenden has been sole proprietor. He has made hosts of friends by his courtesy and fair dealing, and we trust that he will remain with us for many years.

Mr. Crittenden will still continue his splendid management of this great house. The city and hotel cannot afford to give him up. The advantage of a first class hotel to a city like Atlanta is incalculable. It cannot be estimated. We trust that our city may always have this great advantage.

Mr. Thompson, we learn, has sold a third interest each to Colonel Adair and B. H. Hill.

The Maury-Trice Affair.

We give in another column the cards of Gen. Maury and Mr. Trice in regard to the difficulty between them on a train of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad. Connected as the matter is with the scandal against Mr. Davis, it has a wider public interest than it otherwise would have.

The sentiment in the South has steadily set in a current of utter disbelief in and rejection of the accusation against Mr. Davis. And the belief is very general that it was put in motion to maliciously break down the pure fame of the Confederate Chieftain to gratify Radical venom. Those, who like the writer, were North when the affair come out, and saw the hot exultation over it among the Radicals could well come to the conclusion that it was a partisan ruse.

Of course the people of the South have sympathized with and exonerated Mr. Davis, and condemned his traducers. The matter has had a sectional aspect. That Mr. Trice, the author of the scandal, should have suffered contempt is natural, and he appears to have been stung by it into a very savage acrimony.

General Maury appears to have shown his disapproval of the man while traveling on the cars, in an entirely unexceptionable manner. On learning that he was in Trice's car, he quietly left it. As the facts are disclosed by the cards, the attack on General Maury, an old, enfeebled man, by Trice was brutal and unprovoked. Trice followed up General Maury and provoked the difficulty.

There can be but one decision on the matter by an impartial reader, and that must be the utter condemnation of Mr. Trice.

Henry Clews & Co., and the Georgia Bonds.

We, like others, have received our share of Northern papers, containing marked articles abusing Georgia about her action in the bond matter.

Of course it has been well understood that Clews & Co., have been at the bottom of these slanders. They have tried to use the press in their interest. The Savannah News has positive proof of the fact. It quotes the following paragraph from a private letter:

"You speak of the assaults on the credit of Georgia in the financial columns of certain New York journals. Do you not know that Mellin, of the World, Jackson, of the Express, and the commercial man of the Evening Post, all have their desks in the office of Henry Clews & Co., and that they all blow the same horn. If you don't know it, I do."

Of course, also, the knowledge of this fact will destroy the whole effect of such articles.

We have a private letter, also, from New York from a party well posted, from which we learn that the movement of the Frankfort bond-holders appealing to the government at Washington for protection in the matter of the Georgia bonds, is instigated by Clews & Co., and its object is to get the military over Georgia again. The writer says:

"Through the influence of the German bond-holders, Mr. Clews intends to carry out his threats on Georgia. No man has ever yet accomplished the feat of riding two horses comfortably at one time. His letters to the people of Georgia, and his "roundment" of the German bond-holders, (he sold those bonds,) don't trot well together."

The writer adds: "The President and Cabinet, while war is imminent with England and Spain, will hardly make war on Georgia for the German bond-holders and Mr. Clews benefit."

Civil Service Reform.

Editors Constitution: The political key-note of the present day is Civil Service Reform. Patriotism clamors for it, yet her voice is smothered by a venal horde of partisan, time-serving blood-suckers, fattening upon the very vitals of this once great and justly renowned nation, and rolls on without a remedy. Perhaps no truth is better established than that "history repeats itself." During the reign of King James in 1617, Sir Francis Bacon, acknowledged intellectually one of England's wisest and greatest men, was elevated to the high and responsible office of Lord Chancellor and keeper of the great seal.

After an interval of about six years in 1621, Parliament assembled. Among the first business a "civil service reform" was inaugurated. The House of Commons proceeded to discuss the public grievances, which in a few weeks resulted in the appointment of a committee to inquire into the state of the courts of justice. Soon after the chairman of the committee reported that great abuses had been discovered. The person charged was no less than the Lord Chancellor, and the specific charges was having, in two instances, received presents. Bacon was a great favorite with the King, who expressed his deep regret that so eminent a person as the Lord Chancellor should be suspected of misconduct. He disavowed his wish to screen the guilty, but his conduct clearly evinced a disposition to "whitewash" the Lord Chancellor instead of trying him upon the usual form of impeachment, the king proposed an appointment of a commission of eighteen members, selected from the two Houses, to investigate the matter. The commons, however, were made of sterner stuff than we unfortunately have for a Congress, and proceeded with the case in the regular course. Bacon was so overwhelmed with grief and remorse that he actually took his bed. The King, hoping to stay the tide against his favorite, adjourned Parliament for three weeks. But the committee continued to do its duty until the charges of taking presents ran up to twenty-three. Bacon's friends defended him upon the plea that it was not incompatible with his high trust to receive presents, and in itself harmless, that he did not take them as bribes. The Parliament thought otherwise, and called it by its christian name, bribery. Overwhelmed with proof, Bacon confessed to the charge of having received presents, and was impeached, sentenced to pay a heavy fine, to be imprisoned in the Tower during the King's pleasure. He was declared incapable of holding office, and banished for life from the courts, and Christendom, with few exceptions, approve the sentence to this day. There are exceptions, however, "a fellow feeling makes us wonderous kind." When, oh! when, shall we of the United States have such a social revolution as to bring about a "civil service reform?" will it ever be that we shall have our civil offices purged of gift and present takers? Had we a Congress made of the material of the third Parliament of King James, what a cleaning out would there be of the Augean stables at Washington, yclept the "White House," with its relations and dependants! What has been may be again The good work has begun in Georgia, and augurs well of the future. Let us hope on that the people, chafing under the abuses of assumed power, may soon rise in their might and bring to condign punishment the assassins of civil liberty. Then let the fate of England's great philosopher and jurist be a warning to all "gift and present" takers.

Suspension of the Press Tax.

ATLANTA, GA., February 10, 1872.

Editors Constitution: GENTLEMEN—I have to say, in response to your enquiry, that no instructions have been given at this office to tax collectors in regard to tax on press material since the order suspending the tax. This tax was suspended until the meeting of the Legislature in January; that body adjourned without considering the question, and upon consultation with Governor Smith, after the adjournment, it was determined that the suspension was of force until after the final adjournment of said session; collectors therefore will not be instructed to collect this tax until the adjournment of the General Assembly in July next.

Respectfully,
MADISON BELL.

For United States Senator.

Editors Constitution: I hereby nominate Hon. Herbert Fielder for the United States Senate, to succeed the Hon. Joshua Hill. This election, as I understand it, will take place upon the meeting of the Legislature in January next. A better selection cannot be made in the State.

HARALSON.

Religious News Items.

Archbishop McCloskey states that twenty thousand Musselmen were converted by the Catholic Church, last year.

New Jersey is the banner State for Presbyterianism. It has 236 churches and 37,828 communicants, or one to every twenty-four inhabitants.

One of the most distinguished Unitarian clergymen of New York is about to abandon that ecclesiastical connection and take refuge in the Episcopal Church.

The Philadelphia Presbytery, at its last meeting, voted to enjoin and in flagrant cases to report churches of two hundred or more which pay less than $1,000 salary.

The Transcript, of Delaware, says that Bishop Becker, of that State, is regarded as one of the ablest and most learned prelates of the Catholic Church in this country.

There is much excitement in France over the decree convoking the General Synod of the National Reform Church. The government refuses the convening of the Synod.

Bishop Littlejohn of Long Island, stated to an Episcopal Convention a few days ago that one church of his diocese paid more money for music last year than all the churches combined for missions.

Rev. Mr. Cuyler, an able and popular pastor of a prosperous Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, has been arraigned before an ecclesiastical court for the offense of permitting a Quaker female preacher to occupy his pulpit.

The smallest salary yet reported is that of the Rev. R. M. S. Porter, of Whitehall, N. Y., who receives no other salary than the donation, and such other contributions as the people are pleased to make him, the net receipts of last year's donation being forty-six dollars.

The other Sunday Mr. Spurgeon, in the course of his sermon, "came down" on the fashionable congregations who take no part in the praise of God, but leave it all to be done by a few voices or by paid choirs. "It is wretched, it is horrible," said Mr. Spurgeon, "to sit in a church where such a custom is observed."

A "new religionists" sect have sprung up in England. In their church is a space left for dancing, which, it appears, is one of the ceremonies. The brothers and sisters, upon meeting, kiss each other. They then sing a hymn. Then somebody makes a long prayer. Then either a sister or brother preaches from the Book of Revelations. Then some boy or girl has convulsions. Then the meeting breaks up with what appears to be a general "break down," with much kicking and leaping, furious gesticulations and maniacal exercises.

STRIPPING THE STATES.—It is again curiously proposed to stretch the power of Congress to regulate commerce between the States, so as to cover the incorporation by Congress of railroad companies which lie in more States than one. The constitutional question is now before the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives. In this connection the New York Evening Post, a leading Republican journal, says that if Congress should usurp this power, it will only prove that there is nothing whatever left to the jurisdiction of the States, except as the general government chooses to refrain from seizing it.

☞ The New York Tribune says that Barnum now has the only living giraffes on this continent, having just succeeded in bringing two of them across the ocean. He last year lost three, who died on the trans-Atlantic voyage.

ALL ABOUT A KEY.—Several days ago Captain G. W. Anderson visited the jail and conversed with the inmates. From some of the inmates he learned that the party who gave the false key to Joseph Fry was a young man by the name of Willie P. Siler, who had charge of the hand cart express. He communicated his intelligence to Colonel Claiborn Snead, a member of the investigating committee, who had a warrant issued at once for Siler's arrest. Siler was arraigned yesterday evening before Justice Butt. Four of the prisoners in the jail were brought out to testify. Avery Davis testified that Siler gave the key through the grate at the jail to Fry on the Saturday previous to the escape. L. E. Kline corroborated Davis. D. S. Harris testified that Siler handed Wing, the guard at the jail, a newspaper, and then handed the key in a bundle of paper to Fry. Ben. Wilson (col.) substantiated the others. The key was identified, and so was Siler. Wing testified that when the paper was handed him his attention was called off by somebody. The witnesses say Siler handed the key to Fry in a bundle; that Fry first put it in his pocket and afterwards took it out and filed it to fit the door. Judge Butt required Siler to give a bond of $5,000. Solicitor General J. T. Glenn for the State; General Gartrell for defendant.

ABBOTT PANTOMIME TROUPE.—Brilliant in spangles and dazzling in scenic effects, the inaugural performance of the above company last night, presented an opportunity to all to gratify their love of frolic and fun. The "Hunchbacks" is an amusing conceit, and displays a freshness and originality not usual in pantomimes. A prelude introduces us to the main point in the entertainment, and concludes with the appearance of the fairy and wonderful transformations. Rustic festivities, love making, accidents, etc., flash before the eyes of the audience. Then there is a change, and Harlequin and Columbine wheel before us in the dances. The three Hunchbacks is difficult to describe. It is an indescribable compound of much that is comical, which requires to be seen to be appreciated.

Mr. Abbott stands high in his profession as a clown. His gestures and facial expressions are irresistable, and he has agility and good gymnastic training. His ladder dance is very neat, and the best thing of the kind ever seen here. Chrisdie, as Pantaloon, was admirable. Eunice, as Harlequin, displayed considerable agility. Franklin and Howland were very good in their characters. Miss Duffield made a pretty Columbine, and danced with much taste. Miss Julia Sanford did well in all she undertook. The Punch and Judy show was cleverly worked. Jerry Cohan does the Irishman well, has a good deal of drollery, and dances after the most approved style.

The Abbott Company is a good one, composed of artists who understand thoroughly the mode of impressing the comicalities of the play upon the audience. DeGive's will be crowded to-night, for the fun and amusement is great.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—A Sunday School Teachers' Institute will be held at the Second Baptist Church on Thursday of this week. The preliminary service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at which time an address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Warren Randolph, of Pennsylvania. The service will close with singing by Mr. L. B. Fish, of Kentucky—the sweet singer whose fame has been in all the churches for thirty years.

Every Sunday School teacher and worker in the city is invited to be present.

The Institute will continue through Thursday and Thursday evening. Those who attend the sessions will have an opportunity of hearing one of the sweetest singers in all the land, and addresses from some of the best Sunday school workers.

A REPUBLICAN SQUABBLE.—Several days ago a Republican meeting was held at the City Hall. Hon. William Markham presided. The meeting adopted a series of resolutions, of which we give a synopsis:

The preamble charges that at the meeting held on the 18th of January, only nine out of the twenty-nine members of the Executive Committee were present, and seven not members who claimed to be proxies when in fact they were not.

Hon. J. S. Bigby, Chairman of the State Central Committee, is requested to call a meeting of the committee to expunge the proceedings of the bogus meeting and call a State Convention, to Assemble in Atlanta on the 22d of May, to appoint delegates to the Philadelphia Convention and reorganize the Republican party.

The men who appointed themselves delegates are charged with having forced bad men and bad measures on the party, and as belonging to a "ring."

The attempt made by these men to create the impression that the Republican party is so far demoralized that a State Convention could not be got together, is pronounced a libel upon the party and the result of a knowledge on their part that the Convention would not appoint them as delegates.

This is the pith of the resolutions.

Thus would one wing of the party shelve the other. They coolly say to Blodgett, Fatty Harris, Bullock and the other Radical saints, "get thee behind me, Satan."

Our advice to both wings is to pitch in—"sail in, Eph"—and give one another Jesse!

Editors Constitution: In my lecture I stated that the lot on which Wesley Chapel was built was a gift of Mr. Mitchell. This Mr George W. Adair tells me was a mistake. It was the gift of Edwin Payne. I remember well that my dear old friend was one of the first members of the church then and was exceedingly active in building the House of Worship, but did not know he gave the lot. It was just like him, however.

I made an apology which both the occasion and the audience demanded for the fullness with which I narrated the Methodist History of Atlanta. This may, perhaps, find a further excuse from the fact, that the first protracted meeting ever held in Atlanta was arranged for by my father and Edwin Payne, and was held in an old warehouse then owned by A. W. Wheat, and located in the rear of Wesley Chapel and that I am perhaps perhaps one of a dozen of the first members of the M. E. Church in Atlanta now living.

Yours truly, GEO. G. SMITH.

YOUNG AMERICA.—"Paul" is the cognomen of one of the keenest specimens of Young America ever met with. Some five or six years have only passed over his tow-head, yet untold fun and wit lies stored in it. A few nights since there was a candy pulling in town. Paul dressed himself in the highest style of art, and goes after little Miss "Daisy," a beautiful little maiden about his own age, and escorts her to the party. While there he gallantly asked her to "pull candy with him." The instincts of the sex began to crop out in her, and she played the coquette and refused. Paul turned on his heel, and wouldn't see her back home! How very like some more advanced in years.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—All about the loves of a young couple in verse.

CHAPTER I.

Soft is the down on the butterfly's wing,
Soft is the whisper, when lover's speak,
Soft is the light which the moon beams fling,
But softer, by far, is my lady love's cheek.
WALTER.

CHAPTER II.

Soft am taters all smashed up,
And mush are soft as soft can be,
But softer be's that silly pup,
Vat writ that varse to me.
MIRIAM.

ACCIDENT.—Last Saturday night an old man named Thomas Thompson, while attempting to get on the Stone Mountain accommodation train at Decatur, fell between the passenger coach and the depot platform and was crushed so severely as to cause his death in about two hours. The space between the car and the platform was very narrow, and the unfortunate man was turned around several times by the motion of the train. The conductor, Mr. Tuggle, did everything in his power to alleviate the sufferings of Mr. Thompson, and carried him to Colonel J. C. New's, who carried him to his home. Thompson lived on the farm of Dr. Durham, four miles below Decatur, and leaves a wife and two children. No blame can be attached to the employees of the road.

GEORGIA MEDICAL COMPANION.—The second volume of this sterling medical journal, devoted to the science of medicine and surgery, was commenced in the January number before us. It is handsomely printed on fine paper and in clear type. The Original Department is always filled with entertaining matter, while that devoted to "abridged extracts and gleanings" from exchanges" contains the cream of medical journalism and we consider this the most attractive part of the Companion. Drs. T. S. Powell and W. T. Goldsmith, Atlanta, Editors. Terms $2 per annum.

REMOVAL.—On the first of March J. O. Harris & Son will remove their Boot and Shoe Emporium to the stand lately occupied by E. Faxon, on the corner of Broad and Marietta Streets. This will give them room to open out their large stock of goods. The Weed Sewing Machine Company will occupy the rear of the store. Entrance on Broad street.

Editors Constitution: We heartily indorse your suggestions relative to building a line of Street Railroad to the Ponce DeLeon Spring. It will be the best paying line in the city, and a great practical benefit to the working classes. And the line will be liberally encouraged by the property holders of JACKSON STREET.

HOME AND FRIENDS.

O, there's a power to make each hour
As sweet as Heaven designed it;
Nor need we roam to bring it home,
Though few there be that find it.
We seek too high for things close by,
And lose what nature found us;
For life hath here no friends so dear
As home and friends around us.

We oft destroy the present joy—
For future hopes—and praise them,
While flowers as sweet bloom at our feet,
If we'd but stoop to raise them;
For things afar still sweeter are,
When youth's bright spell hath bound us;
But soon we're taught the earth hath naught
Like home and friends around us.

The friends that speed in time of need,
When hope's last reed is shaken,
Do show us still that, come what will,
We are not quite forsaken.
Though all were night, if but the light
From Friendship's altar crowned us,
'Twould prove the bliss if earth was this:
Our home and friends around us.

A STORY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

THE RAG-PICKER'S SON.

As the gray dawn of a November day was breaking over the city of New York, some twenty years ago, a light streamed from the window of an old tenement-house in Manhattan street. The room from which it came was the dwelling-place of "Old Meg," the rag-picker, and her little son Willie. For seven years she had been an inmate of the same room, and nearly every morning, at an early hour, she went forth in search of rags, and her little son went to his place of employment, down town.

Willie was a bright-faced, curly-haired little fellow, of some thirteen years, and was the hope and pride of his gray-haired mother. "Old Meg," (Willie's mother) as the boys used to call her, was about forty years old; but her road through life being rough, and her burdens heavy to bear, she looked much older. Everybody in the neighborhood knew her to be an honest, God-fearing woman. She troubled nobody; and since her husband's death, some ten years before, had worked hard to support her little son, and let him receive as much education as possible.

On the morning in question, she was up at the usual hour, and her scanty meal was spread for herself and Willie. The room in which they were living was not very large, nor was the furniture extensive; but everything had the appearance of the most scrupulous neatness. After they had been seated at the table a few moments, and Willie's mother had asked a blessing, Willie said:

"Mother, you must let me go and gather the rags to-day. I have a holliday, and you do not look well. I know the rounds, for, you know, I used to go with you often before I went to work for Mr. Williams."

"My son," said his mother, "this is the only holiday you have had for six months, and I would not like to take it from you."

"Never mind, mother; I'm young and don't mind work. You won't have to go out many more mornings, for Mr. William is going to raise my wages soon, and then I shall make enough to keep us without your working."

And the little fellow's eyes beamed with pleasure at the thought of his mother not working any more.

"Well, Willie," replied Mrs. Mathews, "you may go out in my place to-day and I will rest."

Willie soon finished his breakfast, and taking the bag and hook, kissed his mother's pale cheek, and with her kind "God bless you!" following him, went down the rickety stairs and into the chilly autumn twilight, to commence his search for rags.

By noon, Willie had nearly filled his bag, and was on his way homeward. As he was passing a millinery store, he saw some scraps lying by the side of the curb, which had been swept from the shop, and setting his bag down, he began to gather them up. He had them nearly all picked up and put in a cap preparatory to putting them in his bag, when something lying close to the sidewalk attracted his attention. He stooped down and picked it up. What was his surprise to find it was a pocket-book, and to all appearances, well filled. Willie opened it, and one look at its contents caused his heart to leap with joy. Sticking it quickly in his pocket, he shouldered the bag, and started as fast as he could toward home.

As he trudged along with his bag on his back, he pictured his mother's surprise when he should tell her what he had found, and show her the pile of money which he knew the pocket book contained.

He soon reached home, and setting his bag down by the door, fairly flew up the stairs, threw open the door, rushed into his mother's presence, and exclaimed:

"O, mother, I've found a fortune!"

And without waiting for his mother to speak, he pulled out the pocketbook and commenced to count the money.

"Fourteen hundred dollars!" he exclaimed, when he counted the roll of bank-bills. "Isn't that a fortune, mother!"

"Where did you get it, Willie?" said his mother quietly.

"I found it among some rags in front of a millinery store," answered Willie, looking at the pocket book. "But here's a name, mother," he continued, as he raised the fly-leaf. "It is 'Horace Carpenter, No. ——, Broadway.' But he must be rich and will not miss it, and we need it so badly."

"But, my son, it would be stealing to keep it. 'Honesty is the best policy,' so you had better take it to its owner, and if he does not reward you, God will."

Without a word of remonstance, Willie rose, saying:

"I will do as you say, mother, 'and if he offers me a reward, I will not take it."

"Go, then my boy, and God prosper you," said his mother.

So off he started for the store of Mr. Carpenter. When he arrived there he, asked if Mr. Carpenter was in. On being told that he was, he said that he wanted to see him. A clerk went to a side door and called him, and in a few moments he entered. Willie stepped up to him and said:

"Are you Mr. Horace Carpenter?"

"Yes, my little fellow. What can I do for you?"

"Take this pocketbook, and see if it is yours," said Willie, as he handed it to him.

Mr. Carpenter took it, and without opening it, said:

"Yes, my boy, that's mine. It was lost by my daughter while out shopping yesterday afternoon. I had just written an advertisement to insert in the morning papers concerning it. But why did you bring it to me? You look as if you needed money"

"But mother bid me take it to its owner, and I never disobey her."

"You shall be rewarded for your honesty, my little boy. But what is your name, and where do you live?"

"My name is William Matthews, and I live in Manhattan street, near Houston."

"I will go home with you," said Mr. Carpenter, "and see your mother, and perhaps I may do something for you and her."

They went out together, the rich merchant and the rag-picker's son, and were soon at Willie's house.

After a short talk with Willie's mother, it was arranged that he should go into Mr. Carpenter's store the next week. In the meantime a more comfortable place was provided for him and his mother by Mr. Carpenter.

Time passed on, and Willie was fast winning the love and respect of all in his new place.

When he reached his twenty-first year he became a partner with Mr. Carpenter in his great dry-goods house.

"Old Meg," the rag-picker, is no more, and the kind-hearted Mr. Carpenter sleeps in the old family burying ground among the green hills of Vermont. But Willie remains, and you would scarcely recognize to-day, in the handsome gentleman entering the great dry goods store of "Matthews & Co," the rag-picker's son.—The Methodist.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, That there shall be a committee appointed of three, one by the President of the Senate, and two by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall have full power and authority to examine and ascertain the number of bonds which have been issued as hereinbefore recited in the preamble of this act, and the aggregate amount thereof; and so far as they have been sold or hypothecated, by whom sold, the amount of money paid, to whom paid, when paid, for what purpose negotiated, and all other facts connected with the history of said bonds, and to report the same to the General Assembly at its next session.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That said committee so appointed, be authorized and required to meet and sit in the city of Atlanta during a term not exceeding sixty days, commencing March 1, 1872, for the purpose named in the first section of this act, and said committee are hereby invested with full power and authority to examine witnesses under oath, to send for persons, books and papers, and to exercise such other power as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

Section 4. Be it enacted further, That all persons holding bonds of the State of Georgia, or bearing the indorsement of said State, issued since July, 1868, are hereby required to report the same to said committee for registration on or before the first day of April, 1872, and upon failure so to report said bonds, and to submit the same for registration, the same shall be deemed prima facie to have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 5. Be it further enacted, That the Treasurer of said State, be, and he is hereby prohibited from paying any interest on any bonds issued, negotiated or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July 1868, until said Committee shall have made their report and the General Assembly shall otherwise direct.

Section 6. Be it further enacted, That nothing contained in this act shall be so construed as to pledge the State of Georgia to the payment of any bonds issued or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July, 1868, by reason of said bonds being registered as prescribed in this act, should it afterwards appear that the same have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 7. Be it further enacted, That the Governor be and he is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the Treasury in favor of said committee or such persons as they may designate for an amount sufficient to defray the expenses of publishing this preamble, and such other printing as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

City Hospital.

THE need of a CITY HOSPITAL for Atlanta has long been felt, but all efforts heretofore for the establishment of such have failed, our people being too poor to raise the money necessary for such a purpose, and the depleted condition of our State Treasury being such as to render successful legislation in the matter both impracticable and hopeless.

It is, therefore, proposed to appeal to all friends of so benevolent a project, and thus secure a nucleus to encourage an increase of the private donations already promised, which will render the scheme a success; and while the erection of such an Institution will be an enduring Monument to the Charity and Liberality of our citizens, it will also be in keeping with our onward march in the cause of

ALL ABOUT A KEY.—Several days ago Captain G. W. Anderson visited the jail and conversed with the inmates. From some of the inmates he learned that the party who gave the false key to Joseph Fry was a young man by the name of Willie P. Siler, who had charge of the hand cart express. He communicated his intelligence to Colonel Claiborn Snead, a member of the investigating committee, who had a warrant issued at once for Siler's arrest. Siler was arraigned yesterday evening before Justice Butt. Four of the prisoners in the jail were brought out to testify. Avery Davis testified that Siler gave the key through the grate at the jail to Fry on the Saturday previous to the escape. L. E. Kline corroborated Davis. D. S. Harris testified that Siler handed Wing, the guard at the jail, a newspaper, and then handed the key in a bundle of paper to Fry. Ben. Wilson (col.) substantiated the others. The key was identified, and so was Siler. Wing testified that when the paper was handed him his attention was called off by somebody. The witnesses say Siler handed the key to Fry in a bundle; that Fry first put it in his pocket and afterwards took it out and filed it to fit the door. Judge Butt required Siler to give a bond of $5,000. Solicitor General J. T. Glenn for the State; General Gartrell for defendant.

ABBOTT PANTOMIME TROUPE.—Brilliant in spangles and dazzling in scenic effects, the inaugural performance of the above company last night, presented an opportunity to all to gratify their love of frolic and fun. The "Hunchbacks" is an amusing conceit, and displays a freshness and originality not usual in pantomimes. A prelude introduces us to the main point in the entertainment, and concludes with the appearance of the fairy and wonderful transformations. Rustic festivities, love making, accidents, etc., flash before the eyes of the audience. Then there is a change, and Harlequin and Columbine wheel before us in the dances. The three Hunchbacks is difficult to describe. It is an indescribable compound of much that is comical, which requires to be seen to be appreciated.

Mr. Abbott stands high in his profession as a clown. His gestures and facial expressions are irresistable, and he has agility and good gymnastic training. His ladder dance is very neat, and the best thing of the kind ever seen here. Chrisdie, as Pantaloon, was admirable. Eunice, as Harlequin, displayed considerable agility. Franklin and Howland were very good in their characters. Miss Duffield made a pretty Columbine, and danced with much taste. Miss Julia Sanford did well in all she undertook. The Punch and Judy show was cleverly worked. Jerry Cohan does the Irishman well, has a good deal of drollery, and dances after the most approved style.

The Abbott Company is a good one, composed of artists who understand thoroughly the mode of impressing the comicalities of the play upon the audience. Doubtless DeGive's will be crowded to-night, for the fun and amusement is great.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—A Sunday School Teachers' Institute will be held at the Second Baptist Church on Thursday of this week. The preliminary service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at which time an address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Warren Randolph, of Pennsylvania. The service will close with singing by Mr. L. B. Fish, of Kentucky—the sweet singer whose fame has been in all the churches for thirty years.

Every Sunday School teacher and worker in the city is invited to be present.

The Institute will continue through Thursday and Thursday evening. Those who attend the sessions will have an opportunity of hearing one of the sweetest singers in all the land, and addresses from some of the best Sunday school workers.

A REPUBLICAN SQUABBLE.—Several days ago a Republican meeting was held at the City Hall. Hon. William Markham presided. The meeting adopted a series of resolutions, of which we give a synopsis:

The preamble charges that at the meeting held on the 18th of January, only nine out of the twenty-nine members of the Executive Committee were present, and seven not members who claimed to be proxies when in fact they were not.

Hon. J. S. Bigby, Chairman of the State Central Committee, is requested to call a meeting of the committee to expunge the proceedings of the bogus meeting and call a State Convention, to Assemble in Atlanta on the 22d of May, to appoint delegates to the Philadelphia Convention and reorganize the Republican party.

The men who appointed themselves delegates are charged with having forced bad men and bad measures on the party, and as belonging to a "ring."

The attempt made by these men to create the impression that the Republican party is so far demoralized that a State Convention could not be got together, is pronounced a libel upon the party and the result of a knowledge on their part that the Convention would not appoint them as delegates.

This is the pith of the resolutions.

Thus would one wing of the party shelve the other. They coolly say to Blodgett, Fatty Harris, Bullock and the other Radical saints, "get thee behind me, Satan."

Our advice to both wings is to pitch in—"sail in, Eph"—and give one another Jesse!

Editors Constitution: In my lecture I stated that the lot on which Wesley Chapel was built was a gift of Mr. Mitchell. This Mr George W. Adair tells me was a mistake. It was the gift of Edwin Payne. I remember well that my dear old friend was one of the first members of the church then and was exceedingly active in building the House of Worship, but did not know he gave the lot. It was just like him, however.

I made an apology which both the occasion and the audience demanded for the fullness with which I narrated the Methodist History of Atlanta. This may, perhaps, find a further excuse from the fact, that the first protracted meeting ever held in Atlanta was arranged for by my father and Edwin Payne, and was held in an old warehouse then owned by A. W. Wheat, and located in the rear of Wesley Chapel and that I am perhaps one of a dozen of the first members of the M. E. Church in Atlanta now living.

Yours truly, GEO. G. SMITH.

YOUNG AMERICA.—"Paul" is the cognomen of one of the keenest specimens of Young America ever met with. Some five or six years have only passed over his tow-head, yet untold fun and wit lies stored in it. A few nights since there was a candy pulling in town. Paul dressed himself in the highest style of art, and goes after little Miss "Daisy," a beautiful little maiden about his own age, and escorts her to the party. While there he gallantly asked her to "pull candy with him." The instincts of the sex began to crop out in her, and she played the coquette and refused. Paul turned on his heel, and wouldn't see her back home! How very like some more advanced in years.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—All about the loves of a young couple in verse.

CHAPTER I.

Soft is the down on the butterfly's wing,
Soft is the whisper when lover's speak,
Soft is the light which the moon beams fling,
But softer, by far, is my lady love's cheek.

WALTER.

CHAPTER II.

Soft am taters all smashed up,
And mush are soft as soft can be,
But softer be's that silly pup,
Vat writ that varse to me.

MIRIAM.

ACCIDENT.—Last Saturday night an old man named Thomas Thompson, while attempting to get on the Stone Mountain accommodation train at Decatur, fell between the passenger coach and the depot platform and was crushed so severely as to cause his death in about two hours. The space between the car and the platform was very narrow, and the unfortunate man was turned around several times by the motion of the train. The conductor, Mr. Tuggle, did everything in his power to alleviate the sufferings of Mr. Thompson, and carried him to Colonel J. C. News, who carried him to his home. Thompson lived on the farm of Dr. Durham, four miles below Decatur, and leaves a wife and two children. No blame can be attached to the employees of the road.

GEORGIA MEDICAL COMPANION.—The second volume of this sterling medical journal, devoted to the science of medicine and surgery, was commenced in the January number before us. It is handsomely printed on fine paper and in clear type. The Original Department is always filled with entertaining matter, while that devoted to "abridged extracts and gleanings" from exchanges" contains the cream of medical journalism and we consider this the most attractive part of the Companion. Drs. T. S. Powell and W. T. Goldsmith, Atlanta, Editors. Terms $3 per annum.

REMOVAL.—On the first of March J. O. Harris & Son will remove their Boot and Shoe Emporium to the stand lately occupied by E. Faxon, on the corner of Broad and Marietta Streets. This will give them room to open out their large stock of goods. The Weed Sewing Machine Company will occupy the rear of the store. Entrance on Broad street.

Editors Constitution: We heartily indorse your suggestions relative to building a line of Street Railroad to the Ponce DeLeon Spring. It will be the best paying line in the city, and a great practical benefit to the working classes. And the line will be liberally encouraged by the property holders of JACKSON STREET.

HOME AND FRIENDS.

O, there's a power to make each hour
As sweet as Heaven designed it;
Nor need we roam to bring it home,
Though few there be that find it.
We seek too high for things close by,
And lose what nature found us;
For life hath here no friends so dear
As home and friends around us.

We oft destroy the present joy—
For future hopes—and praise them,
While flowers as sweet bloom at our feet,
If we'd but stoop to raise them;
For things afar still sweeter are,
When youth's bright spell hath bound us;
But soon we're taught the earth hath naught
Like home and friends around us.

The friends that speed in time of need,
When hope's last reed is shaken,
Do show us still that, come what will,
We are not quite forsaken.
Though all were night, if but the light
From Friendship's altar crowned us,
'Twould prove the bliss if earth was this:
Our home and friends around us.

A STORY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

THE RAG-PICKER'S SON.

As the gray dawn of a November day was breaking over the city of New York, some twenty years ago, a light streamed from the window of an old tenement-house in Manhattan street. The room from which it came was the dwelling-place of "Old Meg," the rag-picker, and her little son Willie. For seven years she had been an inmate of the same room, and nearly every morning, at an early hour, she went forth in search of rags, and her little son went to his place of employment, down town.

Willie was a bright-faced, curly-haired little fellow, of some thirteen years, and was the hope and pride of his gray-haired mother. "Old Meg," (Willie's mother) as the boys used to call her, was about forty years old; but her road through life being rough, and her burdens heavy to bear, she looked much older. Everybody in the neighborhood knew her to be an honest, God-fearing woman. She troubled nobody; and since her husband's death, some ten years before, had worked hard to support her little son, and let him receive as much education as possible.

On the morning in question, she was up at the usual hour, and her scanty meal was spread for herself and Willie. The room in which they were living was not very large, nor was the furniture extensive; but everything had the appearance of the most scrupulous neatness. After they had been seated at the table a few moments, and Willie's mother had asked a blessing, Willie said:

"Mother, you must let me go and gather the rags to-day. I have a holliday, and you do not look well. I know the rounds, for, you know, I used to go with you often before I went to work for Mr. Williams."

"My son," said his mother, "this is the only holiday you have had for six months, and I would not like to take it from you."

"Never mind, mother; I'm young and don't mind work. You won't have to go out many more mornings, for Mr. William is going to raise my wages soon, and then I shall make enough to keep us without your working."

And the little fellow's eyes beamed with pleasure at the thought of his mother not working any more.

"Well, Willie," replied Mrs. Mathews, "you may go out in my place to-day and I will rest."

Willie soon finished his breakfast, and taking the bag and hook, kissed his mother's pale cheek, and with her kind "God bless you!" following him, went down the rickety stairs and into the chilly autumn twilight, to commence his search for rags.

By noon, Willie had nearly filled his bag, and was on his way homeward. As he was passing a millinery store, he saw some scraps lying by the side of the curb, which had been swept from the shop, and setting his bag down, he began to gather them up. He had them nearly all picked up and put in a cap preparatory to putting them in his bag, when something lying close to the sidewalk attracted his attention. He stooped down and picked it up. What was his surprise to find it was a pocket-book, and to all appearances, well filled. Willie opened it, and one look at its contents caused his heart to leap with joy. Sticking it quickly in his pocket, he shouldered the bag, and started as fast as he could toward home.

As he trudged along with his bag on his back, he pictured his mother's surprise when he should tell her what he had found, and show her the pile of money which he knew the pocket book contained.

He soon reached home, and setting his bag down by the door, fairly flew up the stairs, threw open the door, rushed into his mother's presence, and exclaimed:

"O, mother, I've found a fortune!"

And without waiting for his mother to speak, he pulled out the pocketbook and commenced to count the money.

"Fourteen hundred dollars!" he exclaimed, when he counted the roll of bank-bills. "Isn't that a fortune, mother?"

"Where did you get it, Willie?" said his mother quietly.

"I found it among some rags in front of a millinery store," answered Willie, looking at the pocket book. "But here's a name, mother," he continued, as he raised the flyleaf. "It is 'Horace Carpenter, No. ——, Broadway.' But he must be rich and will not miss it, and we need it so badly."

"But, my son, it would be stealing to keep it. 'Honesty is the best policy,' so you had better take it to its owner, and if he does not reward you, God will."

Without a word of remonstance, Willie rose, saying:

"I will do as you say, mother, and if he offers me a reward, I will not take it."

"Go, then my boy, and God prosper you," said his mother.

So off he started for the store of Mr. Carpenter. When he arrived there he, asked if Mr. Carpenter was in. On being told that he was, he said that he wanted to see him. A clerk went to a side door and called him, and in a few moments he entered. Willie stepped up to him and said:

"Are you Mr. Horace Carpenter?"

"Yes, my little fellow. What can I do for you?"

"Take this pocketbook, and see if it is yours," said Willie, as he handed it to him.

Mr. Carpenter took it, and without opening it, said:

"Yes, my boy, that's mine. It was lost by my daughter while out shopping yesterday afternoon. I had just written an advertisement to insert in the morning papers concerning it. But why did you bring it to me? You look as if you needed money."

"But mother bid me take it to its owner, and I never disobey her."

"You shall be rewarded for your honesty, my little boy. But what is your name, and where do you live?"

"My name is William Matthews, and I live in Manhattan street, near Houston."

"I will go home with you," said Mr. Carpenter, "and see your mother, and perhaps I may do something for you and her."

They went out together, the rich merchant and the rag-picker's son, and were soon at Willie's house.

After a short talk with Willie's mother, it was arranged that he should go into Mr. Carpenter's store the next week. In the meantime a more comfortable place was provided for him and his mother by Mr. Carpenter.

Time passed on, and Willie was fast winning the love and respect of all in his new place.

When he reached his twenty-first year he became a partner with Mr. Carpenter in his great dry-goods house.

"Old Meg," the rag-picker, is no more, and the kind-hearted Mr. Carpenter sleeps in the old family burying ground among the green hills of Vermont. But Willie remains, and you would scarcely recognize to-day, in the handsome gentleman entering the great dry goods store of "Matthews & Co," the rag-picker's son.—The Methodist.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,
Cor Fulton, Water and Pearl Sts,
NEW YORK.
THIS well known, favorite hotel, has recently been renovated, remodeled and furnished new and elegantly throughout. It is kept on the European plan, and has ample accommodations for four hundred guests.
The location is more accessible to all parts of New York and Brooklyn than any other house in the city. The Broadway Stages pass the hotel every three minutes, besides various lines of Street Cars, one of which intersects every other route in New York.
It being but two blocks from Fulton Ferry, makes it convenient for those wishing to visit the "City of Churches," as from this ferry diverges all the principal railroad routes in the city of Brooklyn.

ATLANTA City Hospital.
THE need of a CITY HOSPITAL for Atlanta has long been felt, but all efforts heretofore for the establishment of such have failed, our people being too poor to raise the money necessary for such a purpose, and the depleted condition of our State Treasury being such as to render successful legislation in the matter both impracticable and hopeless.
It is, therefore, proposed to appeal to all friends of so benevolent a project, and thus secure a nucleus to encourage an increase of the private donations already promised, which will render the scheme a success; and while the erection of such an Institution will be an enduring Monument to the Charity and Liberality of our citizens, it will also be in keeping with our onward march in the cause of Civilization and Progress.
For every Two Dollars subscribed, an equal interest will be given the holder of Certificate thereof in the distribution of $75,000 Worth of Property,
Numbering 1,500 Articles
To be distributed by the Board of Commissioners as soon as all the Shares are taken.
50,000 Shares
—AT—
$2.00 Each $100,000
The value of the separate interest to which the holder of certificate will be entitled will be determined by the Commissioners who will announce to the public the manner, the time, and the place of distribution.
The following gentlemen are to act as Commissioners, and will receive and take proper charge of the money for the Hospital, and will determine upon the plan and site for the same, to-wit:
L. H. ORME, M. D.,
J. F. ALEXANDER, M. D.,
R. S. RAY, M. D.
All friends to our benevolent object are requested to aid our Manager as much as possible in the arduous labor devolving upon him. Send for circular.
